

WISGOP Daily Update

-President Obama is coming to Wisconsin, again, to talk about the economy, again. Obama will address the crowd at Laborfest in Milwaukee on Monday, September 6. Of course, according to the Wisconsin GOP, "If he was speaking at 'Unemployment Fest' the crowd would be bigger. And probably not as happy. Read more at WISGOP News.

-In Case you Missed It: Wisconsin GOP Chair Reince Priebus was a guest on the Sunday Insight with Mike Gousha program, defending Ron Johnson against some of the most ridiculous attacks coming from Russ Feingold's campaign. Priebus got in a number of shots as well, pointing out that Feingold is a career politician who's failed to deliver on the key issues. Click here to read more, and for a link to the program.

- If you've paid attention over the last few years, vandalism of a GOP headquarters isn't much of a surprise. But it's still a shame. Early Saturday morning, the Republican campaign office in Cudahy, WI was vandalized by a group of four young men. Read more at WISGOP News.

- And of course, the Democrats' relentless lie-and-smear campaign against Ron Johnson rolled ahead today, with perhaps the most bizarre sight yet: DPW Chair Mike Tate hosting a conference call to lecture Ron Johnson on his business practices. Russ Feingold knows that once this race becomes a referendum on his record in Washington, he's toast. Read more at WISGOP News.
